

harvestupdate

March-April 2021

Dear praying friends,

Thank you for the prayers and contributions that have enabled us to proceed with confidence toward a new story-rich website. We believe these compelling tales of missionary work will encourage more labourers to go forth into the Lord's harvest fields.

Writer Wayne Hickson and I have been busy interviewing and writing. Photographer Chew Wei Chieh has been to Asia and back in pursuit of a piece about a leading missionary-sending church. And Ebube Uba is standing by to help us get the word out when the new site is launched.

Once the stories are written, edited, and reviewed, we'll start design, led by Soo Coughlan, followed by site development with Zac Hickson.

Nothing's totally predictable these days, but barring further calamities or pandemic problems, the new site should be up by year's end.

It has been a joy to speak with missionaries from all regions of the world, and I know their stories will inspire others to do more for God.

My prayer requests now are for support as God leads, and practical help from anyone willing to join us. We're looking for enthusiastic amateurs and skilled professionals alike.

We're particularly interested in missions trippers with an iPhone full of photographs and a story to tell, or Bible college students who'd like to interview a missionary for a project.

We know that curiosity attracts readers. God uses this innate quality in humans to drive innovation, exploration—and action. As we lift up the eyes of God's people to look on the fields (John 4:35), we'll also open hearts. Our goal is to win those who will win the lost. More surrendering to Bible colleges and local ministries, to meet an escalating world population. For such a time as this.

How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation;
that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! (Isaiah 52:7)

May the Lord bless you richly as you continue to serve him!
